The Prophet Extension (PROPHET) is a multi-purpose browser extension tool and information sharing platform intended for enhancing social networks and other web pages for the purposes of recruiting. The Prophet Extension is software which is installed in the user's browser at the user's request and with the the user's permission. Prophet operates at the user's request and by user directed actions only.

By using Prophet you agree to the following:

You agree to use Prophet in a legal and ethical way. Further you agree that It is your sole responsibility to ensure that your use of Prophet is in accordance with any and all legal, privacy, copyright, permissions, restrictions, and any terms and conditions which you have agreed to as an individual or as an organization on any of the web sites on which Prophet is used.

The Prophet Extension (PROPHET) is designed to enhance social and professional profiles. PROPHET only operates on social and professional profiles. PROPHET is operating when the "Prophet Arrow (a bold white arrow on a square black background)" is displayed in the upper right corner of the browser. If the arrow is not displayed (it will not display outside of social and professional profiles), PROPHET is not operating (not sending data, not executing at all). When PROPHET is operating, certain functions on certain websites may require that web page data be sent to a server. PROPHET enables users share data with each other and the PROPHET community at large via The Prophet Data Sharing Platform (The Platform). Users either manually enter data by hand or explicitly opt-in to share data by uploading or linking an account or other API integration to share data.

How we collect and use information

We collect both anonymous and non-anonymous information to provide better services to all of our users.

We collect information in two ways:

- Information you give us to initiate service.
 - For example, some features require that you to sign up for a PROPHET account. When you do, we may ask for personal information, like your name, email address, telephone number or credit card. Any account information is strictly confidential and will be protected.

- When signing in with Google we receive your email address and a unique identifier. This is used to keep you logged in and provide us with a way to look up your account.
- One optional feature is the ability to connect PROPHET to your email. This will let us scan your emails for social connection information (emails like "Steven Hawking wants to be friends on Facebook"). We use this information to improve/extend/validate our social graphs.
- Information we get from your use of our services.
 - We may collect information about the services that you use and how you use them. For example, the social URLs you visit and use PROPHET on.
 - We may collect information that you explicitly share with us. For example, you may manually enter or upload or elect to integrate PROPHET with your social accounts in order to share data.

How we use information we collect

PROPHET and The Platform enable and encourage users to share data. With the exception of your personal account details, any information you input into The Platform may be publicly shared with the PROPHET User Community via The Platform unless the information is explicitly labeled as private. For example, some PROPHET features may provide data privacy settings allowing you to indicate that information you have is "Private" or "Team Only" in which case the data privacy is preserved and the data is not shared publicly. With the exception of your account details, the data entered or shared by you should be considered public unless otherwise noted.
